To Whom it May Concern:

SYSCO Food Services of Atlantic Canada have certified Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point (HACCP) programs in place in all of its operating companies in Atlantic Canada. Having a HACCP program helps SYSCO ensure the food we distribute is the safest that it can possibly be. The process of achieving our HACCP compliance required all of our operating companies to meet stringent food safety guidelines, have documented prerequisite programs, monitored sanitation programs and ongoing training programs for our staff.

To meet this end we contracted the services of Kasar Canada Ltd. Our involvement with Kasar began in 1998, when our company was operating as Clover Foods. Kasar helped us with the development and implementation of our HACCP program for all five of our Atlantic Canadian locations. SYSCO Corporation of Houston Texas purchased our operation in 2002. Under SYSCO's ownership we continue to use the services of Kasar for our annual HACCP audits. I note that all SYSCO locations are also subject to third party audits from our parent company as well as several key U.S. based customers. To prepare for these, we have used Kasar to conduct advisory audits using the U. S. and CODEX based Tricon and AIB audit formats. I am proud to say we have consistently scored superior results in both the Canadian and U.S. based audits, thanks in part to the work of Brad MacCallum and the Kasar staff.

Kasar's staff are very knowledgeable in the application of HACCP in actual working facilities. They understand the problems that can appear in daily operations and have developed a logical and practical approach to solutions and to the prevention of risk occurrences.

Not only has KASAR developed our facilities HACCP program, they also developed the food transportation program for our delivery vehicles.

Brad and his staff are well thought of within the SYSCO system. They recently began working with one of SYSCO's locations in western Canada. We proudly display our Kasar HACCP compliance certificate in our main reception, and use this endorsement regularly in our marketing activities.

Yours truly,
